

"Articulture"

Philadelphia Flower Show 2014

"Take Home" VIDEO

A Special Event! Hugh & I judged exhibits at the Philadelphia Flower Show & share "what makes them tick".

click here for PHS Exhibit VIDEO

Garden Events abound in March!

Following in

John Bartram's Footsteps

Wed, March 19 Cherokee Garden Library Atlanta, GA

Click here for more info

Brook Green Spring Garden Festival

Sat, March 22 Free Admission Myrtle Beach, SC

Hugh and I are speaking along with bee-keepers and bird experts! This is a fine event not to miss.

Click here for more info

Garden Retreats:

A friend shares "A Place of My Own" personal retreat

This Gardener Gone Mad Interview shares a place to decompress in the bustle of daily life

Read on for more

Inspiration is found perched, on top of a mountain, looking downwards, and man,
Whatever happens here falls down upon the valley below and the civilians are careful to control water runoff.

CHAPTER 1

The Web of Life

The web of life is the interrelationship of man and nature, whereby a balance is achieved through judiciously shared resources. Small ponds, rivulets, and butterfly rain or wild gardens are landscape types that invite nature to be appreciated at close range. This is the first of the nine principles of linking landscape design and provides many archetypal landscape patterns.

Simply being in nature offers positive health benefits. Evidence-based landscape design reveals that interaction with nature reduces stress. Your body and mind relax when you enjoy a woodland walk or quietly read in the shade, and this reduces your cortisol level, a known physiological stressor.

"The Web of Life"

chapter download from Lifelong Landscape Design

25% of book sales using the code:

click here GCAGROVE

will go to the Garden Club of America
Save the Redwood Grove FUND.

download your Web of Life Free Chapter